ATTORNEY REVIEW DRAFT

PUBLICATION / USE
BLOCKED UNTIL STATE SCOPE, FACILITY AND PROTOCOL REVIEW

Important. This consent is a drafting framework for the current advertised facial, extraction, chemical-peel and dermaplaning concepts. It does not establish that any procedure is lawful for Dew Theory's provider in an unidentified jurisdiction. Before use, counsel and the licensed professional should confirm state scope, facility rules, actual products/strengths/protocols, contraindications and aftercare.

1. Nature and purpose

The planned service is an aesthetic/cosmetic treatment intended to cleanse, exfoliate, improve the appearance or feel of the skin, address cosmetic concerns within professional scope, or support a cosmetic skincare routine. It is not medical diagnosis or treatment.

The provider will explain the selected procedure, products and expected course before beginning. The client may ask questions and may request that the provider stop at any time.

2. Information the client must disclose

Before treatment, the client should disclose information requested by the provider that may materially affect safety or suitability, including as applicable:

- known allergies, sensitivities or prior product reactions;
- active rash, open wound, cold sore, infection, severe irritation or sunburn;
- current prescription skincare, retinoids, exfoliating acids, benzoyl peroxide or other strong actives;
- relevant prescription or nonprescription medication;
- recent waxing, laser/light treatment, peel, injection, surgery or other facial procedure;
- history of unusual scarring or pigmentation change when relevant;
- recent significant sun exposure or planned exposure when relevant; and
- pregnancy-related information only when it is clinically/professionally relevant to the actual product or procedure and lawful to request.

The provider should not instruct the client to stop a prescription medication unless legally authorized. When needed, the provider may require medical clearance or defer treatment.

3. General facial / cosmetic-treatment risks

Temporary effects can include redness, warmth, tightness, dryness, flaking, sensitivity, stinging, irritation, a temporary breakout or an allergic/product reaction. Results vary. A treatment may not improve the client's concern and may need to be modified or stopped if the skin reacts unexpectedly.

4. Manual extraction section

If extractions are performed, I understand they involve manual manipulation of clogged pores/comedonal material and can cause temporary redness, tenderness, swelling, irritation, bruising or pinpoint bleeding. Less common complications can include prolonged inflammation, post-inflammatory pigment change, infection or scarring, particularly when the skin is reactive or the area is manipulated after treatment.

The provider may decline to extract a lesion that appears inflamed, infected, cystic, medically concerning or otherwise unsuitable for aesthetic extraction.

Client initials for extractions: _____ [] Not applicable

5. Chemical peel section

If a chemical peel is performed, I understand a topical exfoliating chemical solution is applied to the skin according to the actual product labeling/protocol and lawful scope. Expected or reasonably possible effects can include stinging or burning sensation during application, redness, dryness, tightness, flaking/peeling, temporary swelling, irritation, breakout and increased sensitivity.

More significant complications, although less common, can include prolonged irritation, blistering or burn, hyperpigmentation, hypopigmentation, infection or scarring. Pigment-change risk can be influenced by skin type, inflammation, sun exposure, product strength, aftercare and other factors.

The provider must use only peel products, strengths, techniques and depths authorized by the actual jurisdiction and credential. [BUSINESS/COUNSEL DECISION REQUIRED: approve procedure-specific contraindications, product/strength limits, timing rules and aftercare for every peel actually offered.]

Client initials for chemical peel: _____ [] Not applicable

6. Dermaplaning section

If dermaplaning is performed, I understand the technique uses an appropriate blade/instrument to manually remove superficial dead skin and fine facial hair within lawful aesthetic scope. Temporary effects can include redness, sensitivity, tightness, dryness, irritation, superficial nicks/cuts, follicular irritation or a temporary breakout. Less common complications include pigment change, infection or scarring.

Dermaplaning should not be performed over areas that the provider determines are actively infected, significantly inflamed, open or otherwise contraindicated under the approved protocol. [COUNSEL/BOARD REVIEW REQUIRED: verify dermaplaning is within the provider's exact state credential/scope before offering it.]

Client initials for dermaplaning: _____ [] Not applicable

7. Aftercare

The provider will give aftercare appropriate to the exact procedure and products used. General aftercare language must not substitute for product-specific directions. [BUSINESS/CLINICAL DECISION REQUIRED: approve written aftercare for each actual service/product, including cleansing/moisturizing, sun protection, exfoliating actives, heat/exercise, picking/peeling and when to contact the provider or seek medical care.]

The client agrees to follow the actual written aftercare and to contact an appropriate healthcare professional for symptoms that are severe, rapidly worsening, medically concerning or outside aesthetic scope.

8. Right to stop, modify or defer

The client may ask to stop treatment at any time. The provider may also stop, modify, postpone or refuse a treatment when the skin response, disclosed history, contraindication, product issue, legal scope or other safety consideration warrants it.

9. No guarantee

No specific result, degree of improvement, duration or absence of side effects is guaranteed. Photographs, testimonials and prior client results do not promise the same outcome for this client.

10. Alternatives

Depending on the client's goals and legal scope, alternatives may include no treatment, a gentler aesthetic service, a different cosmetic routine or referral to a dermatologist/healthcare professional. The provider should explain material alternatives that are reasonably relevant to the selected aesthetic procedure.

11. Photographs and privacy

Any service-use photograph requires the separate Consultation Photo & Intake Authorization. This treatment consent does not authorize public or marketing use. Sensitive intake and treatment records are handled under the Privacy Policy and, where applicable, the Consumer Health Data Privacy Policy.

12. Emergency and medical escalation

Dew Theory does not provide emergency care. Significant facial/throat swelling, breathing difficulty, fainting or other emergency symptoms require emergency medical attention. The provider may refer a client for medical evaluation when a lesion, reaction or condition appears outside aesthetic scope.

13. Consent and acknowledgment

I have reviewed the sections that apply to my selected treatment. I have had an opportunity to ask questions. I understand the nature of the planned aesthetic service, material risks described above, the possibility of no improvement, and my right to stop. I consent to the selected treatment only as actually explained and documented above.
